SIOI (b)(6) informed Mr. Barber that he was required to file for a new license because of the change in entity. At his request, SIOI(b)(6) spoke with (b)(6) his assistant, and provided information on completing a new application and cover letter and offered assistance in expediting the change, applying for new variances and closing out the old license. On Monday, January 11, SIOI (b)(6) contacted (b)(6) to check the status of the application and offer assistance. At this time, (b) (6) r stated she thought Mr. Barber was just going to reactivate the corporation on a permanent basis. On January 12, query of the Arizona Corporation Commission disclosed that the corporation had been reactivated (Exhibit 2). SIOI(b)(6) contacted Mr. Barber on January 12 to determine if the corporation was going to remain intact. Mr. Barber stated that it would, that his accountants had suggested he change since he would not have to file a report every year with the commission. He further stated in light of the additional changes he would have to make, such as applying for new variances, he decided to remain a corporation (Exhibit 3).

In the presence of SIOI (b)(6) Mr. Vanatta queried the electronic record by manufacturer, serial number, acquisition date, purchaser's name and address to ensure the record met the requirements of ATF Ruling 2013-5. The A&D records were found to be in the proper format, contain required information and meet the requirements of ATF Ruling 2013-5. Records are downloaded onto a thumb drive semiannually.

Twenty-five firearms were traced through the A&D record from manufacturer to disposition or inventory. There were no discrepancies.

Mr. Vanatta is the floor supervisor for the manufacturing plant. In-process inspections are conducted throughout the manufacturing process. The receivers are serialized prior to the trigger well being cut. A deburr log is maintained to assist in tracking receivers during the manufacturing process. If a receiver is determined to be unusable, Mr. Vanatta is responsible to ensure it is scraped. Mr. Vanatta maintains a database of pictures of destroyed receivers which includes the serial number.
